SHARK Advice

For a helmet to provide effective protection while remaining comfortable, it has to be perfectly suited to its user. Choosing the correct size is essential.

Ask your authorised dealer to measure your head. Choose the correct size.

Building a part number

All Full face SHARK helmets tested in the SHARP programme achieved four or five stars which is the maximum scored. It's clear to see that SHARK uses real-world accident statistics from CEESAR and COST327 in the company's research and development programme to improve helmet performance.

RESEARCH, INNOVATION & DEVELOPMENT

In over 25 years, SHARK has acquired tremendous expertise that is constantly being extended to make sure progress stays on track. The Research & Innovation unit, based at our French head office, is at the leading edge in terms of both technology and facilities.

We use top-performing software applications, the same as those found in the aerospace industry. Our prototypes are in fact built with a next-generation 3D printer inside our laboratory. Numerical crash tests (in FEA format) play a key role during the design of each new product within a simulation setting. This approach also entails CFD (Computational Fluid Dynamics), a specialty that numerically optimizes the helmet's aerodynamics and penetration through air.

The end user remains chiefly responsible for developing SHARK's products. The company actually bases its model-making on the principle of "Reverse Engineering." Helmets are completely designed for the user's head, with the construction steps circling sequentially in gradually adding each function.

"Design for a Function" is our motto: to ensure that each straightaway, each curve, each function provides utility.

The product therefore is systematically conceived from the standpoint of the end user, for the purpose of always exceeding the most stringent standards and anticipating motorcyclists' needs. In this aim, SHARK relies on its racing experience and feedback from the most accomplished users in each category.

As owner of its production facilities, SHARK masters the entire creation chain from one end to the other.

The brand thus has the confidence to offer a 5-year warranty on its products and proposes helmets that satisfy the requirements of all riders.

RACE-R PRO

Flagship of the line, the Race-R PRO model, is one of the first helmets developed to rely on CFD technology (featuring computational fluid simulations). It adds the attributes of optimal ventilation and penetration through air, while still recognized as one of the world's safest helmets, earning 5 stars in the SHARP crash test. A new price point makes this helmet an absolute must buy.

- An "Optics 1" category flat visor without any visual distortion thanks to a variable thickness (4.2 / 2.8 mm)
- Double back spoiler to ensure both aerodynamics and stability at high speed
- New visor notching system, for even easier handling

SPARTAN

A classy and elegant helmet. Like the Race-R PRO, this model was developed using CFD (in simulating computational fluids). It's design has been entirely dictated by the desired functionalities: each line of the helmet is assigned a precise function, and its location on the shell is determined to guarantee optimal aerodynamics.

- "SHARK SKIN" cover: active reduction of whistling noise
- Double spoiler with incorporated air extractors: optimization of the aerodynamic trail and internal cooling
- Pinlock MaxVision visor a standard feature

SKWAL

SKWAL boasts a design and silhouette resulting from computational fluid simulations, in the aim of optimizing both stability and soundproofing at high speed. The one-of-a-kind SKWAL lines are reinforced and transformed by 3 embedded LEDs powered by a rechargeable battery. SKWAL is one of the world's first major integrated manufacturers to be equipped with this technology.

- "Autoseal" system: flattens the visor onto the helmet, offers better soundproofing and seals the helmet (against water and cold)
- Interior bamboo treatment for triple effectiveness: antibacterial, anti-sweating and hypoallergenic
- Integrated sunshield

The first helmet with LED lights, it has a rechargeable battery (with up to 5000 recharge cycles and a battery life of five hours on a continuous basis, 10 hours while flashing).

EVO-ONE

Major innovation in SHARK's EVO range: compactness and a full array of technical characteristics already rank it among the SHARK brand's greatest successes.

- 2 shell sizes
- Pinlock MaxVision visor a standard feature
- "Autoseal" system: flattens the visor onto the helmet, offers better soundproofing and seals the helmet (against water and cold)
- Compact aerodynamic profile plus a tremendous reduction in airborne noise thanks to CFD design (by simulating computational fluids)
- "Auto-up and auto-down" system: automatic lifting of the visor when raising or lowering the chin guard
- A sunshield 23% larger than that of the EvoLine model
